Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Claims 23-26, 28-47 are pending in the case.

Receipt of the Information Disclosure Statement on 6/25/08 is acknowledged.

The reference which is struck through has not been received. IT is noted that a document has been received which does not appear on the Information Disclosure statement, which appears to be opposition documents from two companies, i.e. PowderJect Vaccines, and Novartis Vaccines and Diagnostics.

Any rejection of record in the previous action not addressed in this office action is withdrawn.

The following is a new rejection:

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 23-26 and 28-47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

To provide evidence of possession of a claimed genus, the specification must provide sufficient distinguishing identifying characteristics of the genus. The factors to be considered include disclosure of complete or partial structure, physical and/or chemical properties, functional characteristics, structure/function correlation, methods of making the claimed product, or any combination thereof. In this case, the claims are directed to a method of removing endotoxin from a plasmid DNA solution comprising a step of filtering through a series of filters including a glass fiber filter and a nylon filter. While the specification discloses that filtration through a .2 $\mu$ m filter from certain vendors (Pall-Filtron, Sartorius and Gelman) , made of glass or nylon, removes endotoxin and results in minimal nucleic acid loss (page 15), there is no disclosure of filters other than this size and these vendors that would have this property of removing endotoxins without nucleic acid loss. There is no description of the identifying characteristics for recognizing that a particular filter from a particular manufacturer will have the claimed property of removing endotoxins. Accordingly, in the absence of sufficient recitation of distinguishing identifying characteristics, the specification does not provide adequate written description of the claimed genus, which includes any glass or nylon filter having the claimed property. Therefore, the inventor, at the time the application was filed was not in possession of the broad genus comprising methods of removing endotoxin from a plasmid DNA solution comprising filtration through any glass or nylon filter, needed to practice the invention.
